JUNE 2014

A Note from the President ...

A FINAL NOTE

For the past two years, the CAA newsletter has included a note from me to you. I enjoyed writing these notes. With each one, I felt we were having a personal conversation. In this, our final conversation, I want to express my heartfelt appreciation for the support, encouragement and assistance of so many who contributed to making my term as president a rewarding one.

I am honored to have worked with such a dedicated board of directors, all of whom shared a vision to preserve and promote Collage Artists of America as a vital arts organization. We took office at a time when challenges and changes were on the agenda. Many of the unexpected challenges were placed on the previous board, and I thank them for successfully paving the way for us to move forward.

The 2012-2014 term found CAA members gathering at new meeting and exhibit spaces, and learning from talented artists at presentations and workshops. During this term, CAA received its designation as a federal 501(c)(3) nonprofit organization, which immediately allowed CAA to collect its portion of funds ($11,000) related to the dissolution of Valley Institute of Visual Arts. And, if you don't yet know, CAA now has a presence on the global stage: Collage Artists of America's Facebook group has more than 1,000 international members and continues to grow daily. Collage art is alive and well worldwide!

I also want to express my appreciation to not only those who donated their time, services and resources to the success of CAA exhibits, meetings, programs, workshops and other accomplishments this term, but also to those who volunteered to serve on the 2014-2016 board. CAA's incoming president Susan Gesundheit, a longtime member who has previously served on the board, will be working with a strong board of directors, and I look forward to the future of CAA under her leadership.

I close my final note by sincerely stating that one of the most rewarding benefits of serving as president was the opportunity I had to get to know and become friends with so many of you.

With many thanks and warm regards,

Marian
